Counterfeiter at High Falls Bungalow Sentenced to 2 Years

New York, Oct. 8 (Special).—The trial of Albert Ravone, charged with counterfeiting $1 bills in a bungalow at High Falls, which began in United States District Court here this morning before Judge Robert P. Patterson and a jury, was brought to a sudden conclusion late this afternoon when the defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty and admitted his part in the conspiracy.

Overruling the strong effort made by his attorney, M. Michael Edelstein, to secure a sentence of not more than a year for his client, the court gave him the maximum, two years.

Edelstein had achieved an earlier legal victory in the case when he succeeded in having the evidence gathered in the raid by Secret Service agents on August 1 suppressed as against Ravone on two counts on the grounds that the search and seizure was made without a warrant. This suppression, however, affected only the counts alleging manufacture of counterfeit money and possession of counterfeit bills and printing equipment. The evidence could still be used in the third count which alleged conspiracy to counterfeit. The trial today was as to the conspiracy charge only.

Ravone's two co-defendants, Igo Albani and Carmine Coppola, arrested with him at the bungalow, appeared in court today and took the stand to testify against Ravone. Both have pleaded guilty. They were sentenced on September 27 to six months each.

Coppola took the stand first. He said that he was accused by Ravone in New York on June 15 and was offered a job at $20 or $25 a week to work out of town. Ravone had some steel plates, he said, with which to make $1 counterfeit notes. Coppola's job would be to help him.

At this juncture Ravone jumped up from his seat in the courtroom, wildly and excitedly gesticulating. He objected to Coppola's statement. It was with considerable difficulty on the part of his attorney, and with some sharp words from Judge Patterson, that he was subdued and the trial resumed.

Coppola said Ravone introduced him to Albani and the three of them went up to High Falls. Ravone hired a bungalow from Frank Dinidone there for $150 for three months. The next week the equipment was brought up and the operations begun.

All week long the three would work on the presses under Ravone's direction, said the witness. At the end of the week, when from 1,200 to 1,500 of the bills were finished, Ravone and Coppola would go to New York and sell them and get supplies of paper and ink for the following week.

The usual selling price was $14 per 100 bills. Other witnesses testified by Assistant United States Attorneys Robert E. Pratt and John J. Goldstone, who prosecuted the case, were men who sold the ink and paper to Coppola. It was brought out during the testimony that Ravone was careful not to appear in person to make the purchases. He always worked through Coppola.

George Smith, Secret Service agent, who is credited with the fine piece of undercover work which resulted in the locating and capture of the trio, told his story from the stand.

He said he first observed Ravone and Coppola in New York on July 15 in a Dodge car. He had been watching ink supply houses trying to trace down the source of the deluge of dollar bills. The actions of the two made him curious and he followed them in another car as they traveled about the city making various purchases and finally parking the car for the night in an 18th street garage. Looking in through the rear of their car, he saw on the floor a can of green ink and a supply of paper.

He shadowed them continuously then until they took a bus from the Greyhound Terminal for Rosendale. He followed all the way in his car, finally losing them after they alighted.

He returned the next day, however, with Agent Frank Seckoe and searched the neighborhood for signs of them and finally succeeded in locating them in the bungalow.

Ugo Albani next took the stand to tell a story similar to that of Coppola. It was during his testimony that Ravone decided to plead guilty.

The capture and conviction of the trio was a source of satisfaction to the Secret Service here. They stated that they had received a flood of counterfeit dollar bills from a number of eastern states and traced them, for the most part, to the bungalow plant at High Falls.

The counterfeiters turned out by Ravone and his assistants were of especially good character and were hard to identify. Nearly $1,000,000 in bills could have been made, they said, with the supplies in the bungalow at the time of the raid.

William H. Moran, chief of the Secret Service, who organized a special squad of men to track down the source of the flood of dollar bills, was "very well pleased" with the way in which the gang was rounded up and prosecuted.

and asked if any further complaints had been received regarding the matter.

Miss Ida Epstein, secretary of the board, stated that Dr. Holcomb had said he had received several complaints.

It was the opinion of the board that if any more complaints were received that it would have an ordinance drafted making it a misdemeanor for those in charge of locomotives to blow their whistles at protected crossings in the city.

Infant Mortality Rate

The infant mortality rate in the city came in for discussion by the board. It was high in September of last year and is high again this September.

The board after hearing a report read of the baby welfare work of the Junior League voted to ask the league at its convenience to prepare a chart showing the infant mortality rate within the past few years as ascertained by the work of its nurse among the children of the city.

Ira Schwenmiller, who has been at Lake Minnewaska for the summer, has returned home.

Kingston Women's College Club Meeting

The Kingston Women's College Club held the first meeting of the year last evening at Mrs. Finch's Tea Room, 17 Pearl street. Mrs. William Haabrouck, as president, called for reports from the chairmen of the several standing committees. Miss Noone gave further details concerning the series of lectures that will be given by Nikander Strelsky of Vassar College during late October and November. It was agreed that each member would be responsible for three tickets. Mrs. Richard Shulte, chairman of tickets, and her committee, Mrs. N. Le Van Haver, Mrs. Howard St. John, Mrs. Joseph McNeil, Mrs. Stanley Dempsey, Miss Ethel M. Hull, Miss Ione Kinkade and Miss Nellie Davenport then distributed the tickets to the various members of the club. Miss Helen Turner announced the first meeting of the music study group for Tuesday, October 22. Those who have already designated their desire to make a special study of music and any other club members who are interested are asked to meet at the home of Mrs. Clarence Dumm at that time. Mrs. Mortimer Downer and Mrs. James Betts will have charge of this meeting at which a special study of "Folk Songs of Europe" will be made.

Mrs. Barnard Joy then presented five recent college graduates for admission into the club. All were accepted unanimously as active members. The new members are Mrs. Allen Barry, a graduate of Smith College with an A. B. degree; Mrs. Robert K. Hancock, A. B. degree from New Rochelle College; Mrs. Kenneth Garsard, with an A. B. from Vassar College; Mrs. Kenneth Campbell from the University of Michigan, also with an A. B. degree, and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, A. B. degree from Vassar College.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. Haabrouck introduced the speaker of the evening, Carl Eric Lind, president of the Woodstock Artists' Association, who read a paper on "The Woodstock Landscape." In this essay, which he had written for the Woodstock Historical Association, Mr. Lind proved himself an artist in the realm of word description as well as a master of the brush. In simple, forceful language, he drew for his audience a vivid picture of the well-titled agricultural land of the Sawkill valley as he remembered it when artists first discovered Woodstock. The speaker then explained what each of the four seasons of the year had to offer to the artists who worked at Woodstock, emphasizing the special beauty of the intimate back roads across Ohayo mountain and over the shoulder of the Overlook, with their vistas across the valleys below.

Mr. Lind explained that this section of the country actually had more days of sunshine to offer a painter than many places and he told of counting as many as 250 sunlit days in one year. He also recalled certain dominant Woodstock personalities who had impressed themselves upon the younger group of Woodstock painters.

Following Mr. Lind's talk the club enjoyed a social hour, during which bountiful refreshments were served by Mrs. Finch. The hostesses for the evening were Miss Julia Cook, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Theresa Culver, Mrs. Stanley Dempsey, Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, Miss Jean Etey, Mrs. Henry Goldworthy, Miss Ethel M. Hull, Mrs. Felix Katz, Miss Ethel Mauterstock, Miss Jane Mauterstock, Miss Margaret Mullen and Miss Margaret O'Meara.

Seventh Ward Democrats.
There will be a regular meeting of the Seventh Ward Democratic Club on Tuesday, October 9, at 8 o'clock at 177 Hunter street. All members and anyone wishing to join the club are urged to attend. Business matters and the fall campaign will be discussed.

Says Matthews Partisan

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 8, 1935.

To the People of Kingston:

Having in mind the high admonition of W. J. Matthews "to drop politics and exercise intelligent cooperation in the interest of the taxpayers and those who badly need employment" I nevertheless feel that Mr. Matthews has stated his views from a strictly partisan viewpoint. However, if he should be sincere in his abhorrence of such base motives, of which I have no reason to doubt, he is not sufficiently informed about his subject to report on it without being violently partisan about it.

The city may consider itself lucky to have received a PWA allotment for the construction of a junior high school. Many communities are not as lucky as that. If Mr. Matthews reads his papers regularly, he should be aware that the $900,000.00 of the four billion appropriation, earmarked by Congress for public works, was cut in half at the Hyde Park conference between President Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes and Administrator Hopkins. As the allotment for the junior high school is around $360,000, it is a matter of simple arithmetic to determine that Kingston is going to receive more than three times the amount it would receive if the money were allotted on a per capita basis. It would be foolhardy to expect further PWA allotments for Kingston, yet Mr. Matthews raises the question "as to why certain other projects are not being accepted by the PWA officials and engineers".

Mr. Matthews, like so many of us fallible mortals who suffer from scrambled alphabeticus, perhaps sees no distinction between the PWA and the WPA. The former sponsors genuine public works, and the latter emphasizes work for the unemployed relief recipients at a security (?) wage. In order to make good the President's promise that 3,500,000 men be taken off the relief rolls for at least a year, the greater part of the four billion that is still on hand must be paid for labor. This leaves very little money for material. Whether or not Mr. Matthews' suggested projects meet this requirement I do not know, but I am certain that the 103 projects submitted by the city administration do so.

Where Mr. Matthews gets the idea that projects are held up, to the detriment of the unemployed, and here he must refer to WPA projects, because of a failure of "common sense and Kingston money" to back it, is beyond me. It is not a requirement that WPA money should be matched or supplemented by local contribution. The federal government pays 100 cents of every dollar spent on these projects, and if the type of projects approved in the City of New York is any criterion as to common sense, the 103 projects sponsored by the City of Kingston are in a class by themselves.

If Mr. Matthews will take the trouble to ascertain the facts, he must agree that he has been ill informed, and he also must realize that he has been taken in by some politicians who try to win the unemployed into their camp by the dissemination of just such misinformation as is contained in Mr. Matthews' letter.

Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., Has a Busy Program This Month

October is proving a busy month for Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., with three meetings within the month. The society now numbers nearly 180 members and looks forward to an active and interesting year, under the leadership of Miss Louise W. van Hovenberg, regent. All of the meetings are held in the chapter house, of which the members are justly proud. The house was one of the first built after the stockade and the name of the first owner recorded is Anthony Crispell.

The first meeting of the year was held on October 6. Chapter day, which also is guest day, will be an event of Wednesday, October 16, when each member may bring a friend. Willis G. Nash will be the speaker. His subject will be "Burning of Kingston". Hostesses for the day will be the entertainment committee of which Mrs. John Saxe and Mrs. R. R. Gross are chairmen.

On October 26 Wiltwyck Chapter will be hostess to a state group meeting. November 7, the regular meeting will have a program of Ellis Island films and reports of the state conference held in New York city. Mrs. David Terry attended this conference as delegate from Wiltwyck Chapter. She was accompanied by Mrs. Alva Staples. Mrs. W. Dean Hays and Miss Sarah Hasbrouck were present at some of the meetings. These ladies also will be in attendance at some of the sessions of the fifth annual Current Problems Forum conducted by the Herald-Tribune next week. The hostesses for the November meeting will be Mrs. William Frey and Mrs. Austin Newcomb.

On December 5 Mrs. B. C. Van Ingen and Miss Sarah Hasbrouck will be hostesses at the Christmas meeting. The Ellis Island Christmas tree will be agiltter and will receive a gift from each member of sewing or knitting material to be used by the women who are detained at Ellis Island. This is a special D. A. R. project and the members of all chapters join in this work of helping the foreign women pass the time usefully and pleasantly while detained. The guest speaker for the afternoon will be the Rev. James M. Armstrong, Jr., whose subject will be "A Message from Palestine". Christmas carols will close the program.

The meeting of January 2 will be given to the election of delegates and alternates to Continental Congress and to music furnished by children of Wiltwyck Chapter. Mrs. C. Ray Everett and Mrs. Harrie C. Ingis will be hostesses.

Mrs. Elva Bogart will be hostess February 6 at the monthly meeting and Mrs. Rose Witter will speak on "Where the West Begins". February 22 will be guest day and marionettes will furnish the program. The entertainment committee will be hostesses.

"Songs of the American Indians", by Miss Helen Turner, will be the topic for the meeting of March 5. The hostesses at this time will be Mrs. Moebling and Mrs. Harold Keator.

Dr. Elizabeth Parsons will be the speaker at the meeting April 2, her subject being "Medical Work at Twilling Gate". Mrs. John Groves and Mrs. W. S. Hancock will be hostesses.

From April 19 to 21 the 45th Continental Congress of the National Society D. A. R. will be in session.

At the regular meeting May 7 delegates and alternates to the state conference will be elected. Mrs. E. Thomas Boyd, chaplain general of the National Society, will be present and speak, her subject being "We Must Build". Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Edward Terpening and Mrs. John Robinson.

On May 21 election of officers and reports of Continental Congress will be the program. Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth and Mrs. Clair Sheaffer are the hostesses committee.

May 26 the annual Memorial Day service will be held at 11 o'clock at the First Dutch Reformed Church.

Miss Helen Turner and Mrs. Clarence Dumm will be hostesses for the meeting of June 4, when officers will be installed and annual reports given.

Annual Card Party

The annual card party of P. T. A. No. 5 will be held Friday evening, November 1, beginning at 8 o'clock. Progressive pinocle and bridge will be played. The party will be held at the school and refreshments will be served.

Marlborough Given PWA School Grant

Marlborough, Oct. 9.—The board of education of Marlborough village has been officially told of the PWA grant of $167,141 for the erection of a new school. Mrs. Plank, the board president, received word last Monday morning of the granting of the amount. Mrs. Plank was also instructed by the state director to attend a meeting held last Tuesday. Plans and specifications for the first contract in the projects must be in and ready for approval by October 10. The school voters will vote as to the appropriation of 55 per cent of the cost of a building for a central grammar and high school.

Clinton Avenue Pancake Supper.

The Men's Club of the Clinton Avenue Church will hold one of its famous pancake and sausage suppers this evening at the church hall on Clinton avenue. Supper will be served at 5.30 until all are served. There will be a competent corps of waiters to serve. The public is cordially invited to attend.

INDUSTRIALIZING CHINA.

Japan, pushing on in northern China in the double task of assimilating that country and establishing more buffers between herself and Russia, is taking over three more provinces. These are Hopei, Shantung and Shanai, a rich area including Peiping and Tientsin and dominating the Yellow Sea. It is like some foreign power taking possession of New England and New York for political, military and business purposes. The Chinese government at Nanking can do nothing, and foreign powers are too busy at home to interfere.

It may as well be accepted by everybody that China is going to be swallowed piecemeal. And perhaps the most interesting question arising from this procedure is whether Japan will industrialize China as she is doing with herself. It will mean a tremendous change in Chinese life. If man-power gives place to machine-power. Louis C. Jones, a member of the American Economic Mission to China, tells of 20,000 coolies regularly employed till recently in carrying water up 400 granite steps from the Yangtze River to the city of Chungking. He has also seen a gang carrying water half a mile down a mountain-side. What will become of those water men? In the interior province of Szechwan alone, he declares, the lives of 60,000,000 people must be readjusted as a result of industrial progress. Asia may be destined to face unemployment problems of which our western nations, with all their experience, have no conception.

WISE OLD MEN

A group of Kansas City's "unemployables," men in their late sixties and seventies, have banded together in a "Fathers Club of Self-Help Projects." They are working in a factory operated by themselves, making novelties which they sell. Private funds financed them at the start, but the men were doing useful work and soon created considerable demand for their output, which consists of lawn chairs, ironing boards, dolls, toy motor cars, doorstops and rubber doormats.

The best thing about the project is that many of these men were unemployed and on relief. They got tired of relief and worked out a plan for their own economic salvation. An idle factory was found, and the co-operative organization developed. The men profit in many intangible ways. Almost ready to give up hope for independence and jobs, they have now proved their usefulness to themselves. Confidence has replaced fear and that feeling of being beaten and useless.

DOGS' SENSE

In a new-fangled mind test, made with a dog by Chicago scientists using an instrument they call a "psycho-galvanometer," they proved to their own satisfaction that the dog was as intelligent as an average 12-year-old child. This announcement leads a Detroit newspaper man to lament the inadequacy of the test. A better machine, he thinks, would have shown that dogs have more intelligence than human beings of any age. In evidence he submits these facts:

- A dog will not eat when he isn't hungry.
- A dog will relax and rest when he has nothing to do.
- A dog doesn't do things that previously got him into trouble.
- "We're not sure of the third statement, but the other two are solid."
- The second especially must have impressed anyone given to intelligent observation of dogs. Human beings seldom know enough, or have enough self-control, to rest when they have finished doing anything, so as to be ready to tackle the next thing "turning up."

MUSICAL GUIDANCE

Each value, in a music lesson, drops a new idea about musical training.

Any boy or girl who wants to take up music seriously, he says, should first consult a psychologist for advice in selecting the instrument best suited to his talents. This seems to put quite a burden on a profession that has already spread its field rather wide. The psychologist must not only know about musicians' minds, but about the instruments themselves.

If the advisers are really good psychologists, with the requisite equipment, such service might be a public benefit. Doubtless we have too many musicians now sawing violins when they should pound drums, or playing the piano instead of the jeweharp. But it might cause overproduction in some lines. There must be an awful lot of people with saxophone minds, for instance, seeking expression. Surely some musical mentalities ought to be restrained, or guided gently into useful manual labor.

PET DOCTORS

Veterinarians or "horse doctors" have changed their practice with the development of the machine age. Formerly 95 per cent of their doctoring services were given to horses. But the horses became scarcer as the gasoline buggy gained in power and ease of operation.

Today the vet does only 35 per cent of his work with horses. All the rest is devoted to prescribing for pets—dogs, cats, and so on. There are a surprising number of animal pets in American homes, and most people try to take too good care of them. For the few who abuse or neglect them, there are more who call the vet for an ailing animal friend as promptly as they call the doctor for the human family. And the pet doctor has to be good.

That Body of Yours

BY James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act).
ONE SIDED HEADACHE.

I believe that most physicians, including myself, have the idea that the liver is in some way connected with migraine or one sided headache.

Drs. Etienne and Coleason of Nancy, France, recently reported their observations as to the part played by the imperfect work of the liver in causing migraine. They report three types of migraine: (1) the usual severe one sided headache occurring from time to time; (2) the cases in which the one sided headache is present practically all the time, with a feeling especially on awakening of a confused mental state, nausea often without vomiting, fatigue and inability to concentrate and to work; (3) the same as the second type only periods when the headache becomes more severe.

Forty-five persons were given treatment, the object of which was to stimulate the action of the liver, such as alkalies in small doses, especially sodium benzoate, magnesium salicylate, sodium citrate and vegetable and other liver stimulants (to increase the flow of bile). In seven of the forty-five cases the attacks disappeared completely after fifteen days of treatment. In twelve other cases the same result was obtained only after two months. In the remaining eighteen cases the attacks disappeared after a longer interval. Eight cases are not included because they have not been followed for a sufficiently long time.

In all, thirty-seven cases of the forty-five who were given only the above medicines to stimulate liver action were relieved completely of their attacks. Now it is not my intention to suggest that sufferers from migraine should immediately start on a course of alkalies and bile-stimulating drugs. Treatment of this kind should be under a physician's supervision.

My point, however, is that as a sluggish liver and gall bladder appear to have something to do with causing migraine then the liver and gall bladder should be stimulated. Some physicians get satisfactory results by prescribing bending exercises (knees straight), and the use of a level teaspoonful of Epsom salts two or three times a week.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman.

RYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth cannot help feeling uneasy partly because of her father's sudden and mysterious decision to visit his old home, partly because the attitude of her hands, Rob Crocker and especially because she has found her father deeply interested in what Terin North, Anne's old nurse is telling him. Now Anne is going with Rob to dinner with relatives whom she cordially detests.

Chapter Five HAPPY FAMILY

THE drive was short. The car soon moved up the shrub-lined driveway to the house where Anne had spent the early years of her life and upon which she now looked with affectionate interest. Sharlee was at the door to meet them, bracelets, necklaces, dangling earrings and curls fluttering and jangling with her animation. "Where's your mother?" demanded Mrs. Charlotte Farnsworth, appearing from an inner room, her perpetual look of discontent more deeply etched on her almost masculine features than ever. Anne won her aunt's displeasure by conversing with Milna as she served, and was relieved when the dinner was over and they were allowed to repair to the living room. "Anne," Luke Farnsworth beckoned, "and boys, Lee, Tom and you, Rob, I want to talk to you all in the library."

Sharlee was at the door to meet them.

what Luke thought he had to do. He should know by this time that Lee's capable of managing affairs down here, Portland too for that matter, and without interference.

Anne was saved the embarrassment of a reply by the sudden switching of the conversation. "Beautiful cape," observed Mrs. Farnsworth, grudgingly, "must have cost a fortune Milna—" a slim, pale blond girl came in from another room, smiled shyly at Anne, and took the cape.

"Anne, you do wear the plainest clothes," she went on as she smartly designed coral frock was revealed. "and with all the money you have to spend! But then, plain girl, plain clothes. Let's go in the living room I left a platter of hors d'oeuvres, on the table beside Mabel, and at the rate she was sampling there won't be one left. That woman could eat her way through a cracker factory!" Anne smiled and, and followed her aunt in to where Mabel Farley, a feminine replica of Lee Farnsworth and faintly resembling her own father, was sitting on the last owned oblong.

"Lee just insisted I take it," she apologized under the condemning gaze of her sister-in-law. "Hello, Anne, pretty dress My but you're thin. Ought to eat more. But then, girls in love, eh, Tom? Remember how thin I was before we were married?"

ANNE, lips twitching, caught the ardent look Tom Farley cast his wife, before turning his attention to her. "I suppose we'll have to wait dinner until the millionaire Farnsworths arrive," he observed blithely, then turned to Lee, who had answered the telephone and was now looking at them with a bewildered expression which set incongruously on his fat, pleasant face.

"Luke called," he explained, "saw he's leaving for Portland right after dinner, wants to see my car." Anne listened to her uncle in fresh consternation. What had happened to cause Luke to rush back to Portland in such a storm?

The others wondered the same thing and piled Anne with questions.

SOUTH RENTON

South Renton, Oct. 8.—The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Julia Mains on Wednesday evening. The school tax list is in the hands of Collector Tardner and he will collect taxes at one per cent until October 12, after which five per cent will be charged for the next 28 days. Mr. and Mrs. Len Hook of Bridgeport, Conn., were week-end guests at the home of the Misses Anna and Margaret Fallon. Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton of Raynham, N. J., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cole. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Moring and family of Kingston have moved into the Woodell Scherer house on Second street. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mains of Elmore and mother, Mrs. Julia Mains and aunt, Miss Sarah Barker, returned to Malda from a vacation and called on Mrs. E. E. Mains and Mrs. William Moring at Malda. Mrs. Mober and Mrs. F. E. Kier and daughter, Gertrude, of Kingston, were callers on Mr. and Mrs. John Stodt Sunday. Prayer meeting on Thursday evening in the M. E. Church, to which all are invited. Mrs. John Stodt, who has been ill for the past couple of weeks, is convalescing under the care of Dr. George Ross. Mr. E. B. Haines and daughter, Mrs. Robert Hunter, of Haines Falls, called at their home on Second street, Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Ryan of Philadelphia, Pa., N. J., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cole. State Troopers were in the village on day last week. They were called by car owners whose cars were impounded by local boys. Mrs. Nathan Cole is in charge of the annual turkey supper of the M. E. Church to be served October 17, and a delicious menu is promised under her supervision.

A. will serve their annual roast pork supper in the school house. The proceeds will go for school equipment. Supper will be served from 5:30 until all are served. Everyone welcome.

The service and hospitality card party was a success, both socially and financially. Over 100 friends and neighbors attended. The committee thanks everyone who attended or helped.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON — Politicians in Washington who watched President Roosevelt's western trip from the time he boarded the train at the union station here until he embarked on U. S. 8. Houston were struck by two things:

First, Mr. Roosevelt, as he got farther and farther west, gained confidence. (In his speech at Fremont, Neb., he seemed to be feeling his way; but at San Diego there was a decided note of old-time exuberance in his tone.)

And, second, with budget statements and the like, the astute manner in which he avoided one of the most pressing and ticklish problems of the moment—the soldiers' bonus. There was much said under cover in Washington as to why Mr. Roosevelt delayed his trip west until the American Legion convention in St. Louis was over. The real explanation can be provided only by F. D. R. himself.

'Bonus Action Certain'

SOME idea, however, as to how the politicians and others politically minded in the capital think on the subject may be had in a statement made by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma in New York just before he left for the west to attend a silver conference at Salt Lake City: "Next year is a campaign year. There is a bloc of 4,500,000 soldiers to be dealt with, and, just applying political psychology, you can figure there is no power under Heaven that can defeat the bonus bill. Mr. Roosevelt may veto it in order to let it pass. But a bill will be enacted—either to raise the bonus money with bonds or to print new currency."

Possible Reasons

MR. ROOSEVELT's silence on the bonus from Washington to San Diego may mean:

(1) He is convinced recovery is here, and that the federal government is about to reach the place where it can at least take the first steps toward the goal of curtailing emergency expenditures. That being true, there is no need for spending two billion dollars or more to pay the bonus.

(2) It was good politics. The Republican from Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, on down the line have been crying incessantly that we must "Balance the budget." G. O. P. has ambitions in '38, just as have the Democrats. Payment of the veterans bonus requiring an outlay of two billions, would make it difficult to balance any kind of a budget. Mr. Roosevelt knows that and probably has suspicions the Republicans know it too well. He can count on the Republicans then to abide with whatever decision he might make in the matter.

Deliberate Choice

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
The X's lived in a small community where everyone knew and kept track of everyone else's business. Mary X, who was eighteen, was working, and at times brought home some of her fellow-workers to meet her family. Some of them were young men, and the neighbors were all agog because it was not always the same one.

But Mary was not thinking of marrying. She was adopting the ways of the larger world outside, and seeing and meeting all kinds of people before she settled down to marriage. Her mother, very wisely, did not interfere. She made the home as attractive as possible to her daughter's friends and encouraged them to come there rather than to frequent movie houses and dance halls. She refused to listen to the croaking and talk of the neighbors, and as a result kept in touch with her daughter, and in the end had the happiness of watching her settle down to a happy married life.

The days when children grew up together and after years of school and play paired off and married have passed and gone. In the shifting mazes of modernity where a girl meets most of the men she knows at work or through her friends she must have a time and place where she can see them and become better acquainted with them than is possible at work or safe out of her home. If she feels that she can bring them to the house and have them accepted and welcomed simply as her friends and with no thought or hint of an "understanding," she is far more apt to make a suitable choice of a husband than if she obeys the narrow conventions of her neighbors and chooses and sticks to the first man she goes out with.

Let the neighbors talk. They are living in a past age and their out-moded gossip can hurt no one.

The Good-Byes

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
BECAUSE of all you have done for us we are changing our plans," the owner of the side-show said, "and I am going to take a long pleasure trip. It will be our first holiday in many, many years, and we owe it all to you. Because it was your crew who first thought of this wonderful scheme we want to do something special for you."

"Of course we know that the bag of money that all of you—to get in provisions and may need for the cold weather—to have some in reserve in case you need something extra at some time—and there will be enough to help you for many months to come."

"Certainly you and your animal friends deserve it. But we've had a silver medal made for Christopher Columbus Crew, and when he was to go to a grand place he was given this decoration around his neck for a very large chain attached."

Why Nilly looked at the medal on which was written: "Distinguished Order of Cross Medal Presented to Christopher Columbus Crew, Discoverer, Schlar, Actor, Filmer." Why Nilly read it aloud to Christopher who put it around his neck, bowing and cawing his thanks. Then everyone began to say good-bye, and the Public Welfare and the Automobile Two-Way with Why Nilly. The box of money was put on the floor in the back of the car, and off they drove, their adventure over. But now they had no more money—and they were going home. How glad they would be to get home!

Named Secretary Auto Merchants Ass'n

Roy M. Sulliff, vice-president of Colonial City Chevrolet, Inc., of this city, was elected secretary of the Empire State Automobile Merchants Association at its annual session at the Hotel Ten Eyck, Albany, Tuesday. Mr. Sulliff was also named to the board of directors.

Favor 65 License Fee
One of the important items of business before the Association was the matter of a reduction in license fees in the state. The dealers by resolution demanded a reduction of automobile license plate fees to $3 a year for all cars. Their theory was that the heavier and larger vehicles would compensate for the reduction in fee through payment of additional gasoline tax.

Charles A. Harnett, state commissioner of motor vehicles, addressed the dealers and asked them to co-operate in the campaign to reduce accidents and also advocate legislation making liability insurance compulsory for automobile owners.

Other officers elected were: John Van Benschoten, Poughkeepsie, president; Lewis G. Stapley, Albany, re-elected state association manager; E. M. Alling, Rochester, and Harry W. Kellogg, Niagara Falls, vice-presidents; Q. H. Ball, Troy, treasurer; Charles H. Touey of Albany and Clifford M. Bishop, Brooklyn, directors for three years.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calumet—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel dazed, sunk and the world looks pink. Laziness are only make-whiffs. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fleeing Justice

Rochester, N. Y.—Federal court at Lockport, in the western district of New York, was open for one minute before U. S. Marshal Joseph Fritsch adjourned the session. It's just an old Lockport custom. A regular session has not been held there for 10 years.

Speedy Recovery

Delaware, O.—A bit and run motorist struck a man on a corner. An ambulance arrived. Witnesses lifted the dazed man inside. Before the victim could start his ride to the hospital, he opened a rear door and ran down the street.

Golden Afterglow

Denver—A decade ago an aging Denver churchman comforted a lonely English immigrant girl who lay critically ill. She recovered then, but died recently after an emergency operation. Her will, filed for probate today, left the $10,500 estate to the clergyman, the Rev. John W. Hudson, 83.

His Boy Missing

Milwaukee—Fred Klug and his son, Charles, lived together in bachelor quarters for 12 years. Last September 29, the boy did not return from work. Now the father is worried and has asked the police to search for him. The father is 34 years old, the son 21.

Seat of the Trouble

Milwaukee—Joseph Nicholson, city purchasing agent, complains one of his big worries is the wear and tear on the police squad car seats. He said the average life of a cushion was only six months.

By that time, he explained, most of the officers have worn their way through to the toolbox below the seat.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—Dr. Walter N. Thayer, commissioner of correction, was named today by Governor Herbert H. Lehman as New York's delegate to two crime conferences.

New York, Oct. 9 (AP).—J. Mack Young, president of the Automobile Club of New York, is the new president of the New York State Automobile Association. He was elected yesterday at the close of the association's annual convention. He succeeds Claude J. Holding.

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP).—New York state's share of the Works Progress Administration fund was set yesterday at $118,990,000, of which $105,509,637 already has been allocated.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—The proposed seven-state milk pact to prevent dumping of cheap milk and price chiseling in the New York-New Jersey market came under the fire of dairy leaders today, less than 24 hours after it had been submitted to producers for their approval.

The details of the pact were made public yesterday and almost immediately cries of "unconstitutional" arose from directors of the Allied Independent cooperatives, Inc.

Under the pact, producers and distributors are protected from milk dumping and price chiseling by federal regulation of inter-state milk.

Alfred, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—Plans were being made today to launch a campaign October 24, to raise $1-672,386 for Alfred University.

Dr. J. Nelson Norwood, president, said the campaign was authorized by the board of trustees. It will be conducted by the finance committee of the board.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—The "inevitable" entry of the United States into the next great war was seen today by Admiral William S. Sims, retired World War commander of the American fleet, if this country insists of maintaining the freedom of the seas.

Admiral Sims said he believed this nation could keep out of a threatened conflict by adhering to a policy of "Let the trader beware."

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Oct. 8.—Miss Margaret Pinckney spent Saturday evening with her mother, Mrs. E. Myer. Miss Pinckney is employed in Millbrook, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bishop and son of Meriden, Conn., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Osterhout and attended church here.

Mrs. B. Law spent Sunday in Kingston with her daughter.

The next rehearsal for the Spindlers' Convention will be held in the church hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Lynn Courson returned from the hospital last Monday evening and is now able to be up and about. His injuries, received when his bicycle ran into a car near the Mt. Marion Inn, were not serious though extremely painful.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doran returned Wednesday from a motor trip to Niagara Falls. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Doran leave for a week in New York city.

Frank Hill's store and house look even fresher than usual as Fred Whitaker is putting the finishing touches to a new coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young and daughters, Marjorie and Joan, motored to Albany on Sunday.

Mrs. Gillison's Sunday school class and Miss Young's class were tied for the attendance banner this month. It was decided to let Mrs. Gillison's class have the banner for two weeks and Miss Young's class for two weeks.

It was announced that next Sunday will be rally day for the Sunday school if there is church, if not the following Sunday was designated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young and daughter, Betty Jane, of Long Island spent Sunday with the Harry Bedricks.

Grand Jury Action

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 9 (AP).—Grand Jury action on the murder charge against Mr. and Mrs. Genaro Policastro of Lyndhurst in the death of Anthony Paulillo, of Yonkers, N. Y., has been deferred until October 22. The case was to have been taken up yesterday but the grand jury's session was postponed for two weeks.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Oct. 7.—Two baptisms were administered Sunday afternoon in St. Augustine's Church by Father Charles Rizzo when John and Jennie Hewitt Valentino had their son, Joseph, christened. The second was Anthony Joseph, infant son of Frank and Josephine Selame.

Promotions at the rally day service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning were from the beginners to the primary: Ruth Countryman, June Robinson, John Dimney, Lorraine Dirk, Joseph Rheal, Virginia Reilyen, Harry Stillier, Rachel Robinson, Henry Werner, William Weston, Eugenia Newton, Chester Morse, Robert Halstead, Peggy Morse, Robert Roumells, Richard Woolsey, Grace Halstead, Alice Winchester. From the primary class to the juniors: Alice Robinson, Jasper Stokes, Elizabeth Wood, Kenneth Mackay, Margaret Batt, Nancy Rathgeb, Bertha Speedling, Lester Rathgeb, Shirley Dirk, Fred Randall, Ruth Mackay, Nancy Richards, June Schantz, Katherine Hagaman, George Woolsey.

Mrs. Martha Schantz, Mrs. M. E. Maynard, Miss Julia Van Keuren and Mrs. J. W. Blakely attended the Republican League tea Friday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

Harold Arnold of Stapleton, S. I., spent the week-end in town with friends.

Miss Edna Curry drove to Cooperstown Saturday and returned the next evening with her mother, Mrs. Edward Curry, who had been there for nearly two weeks. Mr. Curry remained until the end of last week.

Mrs. Alfred Coutant and Mrs. Edgar Borce attended the meeting of 4-H Club leaders in Kingston Tuesday.

Mrs. A. W. Lent entertained the Evening Reading Circle Monday evening and the first chapter of the book, "Towards Christian America," was discussed. Mrs. D. S. Haynes and Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb gave reports of the Northfield conference in the form of a quiz. It was reported that articles of furniture such as two ice boxes, tables and a kitchen cabinet were already donated for the rummage sale on October 18 in the former Henry Terwilliger Hotel.

Mrs. D. H. Starr entertained the Monday afternoon bridge group with Mrs. Louise Walker and friends as guest players.

The Rev. D. S. Haynes and his guest, the Rev. Herbert Killinger, attended the North River Presbyterian retreat at Marlborough on Monday and attending for supper and the evening were Clarence W. Rathgeb, Matthew Ruch, J. J. Demarean.

HINTS ON HOME IMPROVEMENT

Housing Hints

Tips on How and What to Improve

Fire Alarms

There is always danger of fire starting at some unexpected place.

Immediate notice of a fire will often permit the house owner to extinguish it before it has done much damage. A fire alarm can be installed to ring whenever the temperature at a selected point rises faster than a predetermined rate.

There are small fire alarms available on the market for use in dwellings. They are not expensive and are very valuable especially at night.

Skylights

Skylights should be structurally strong and protected by heavy wire screens.

The purpose of this recommendation by the National Board of Fire Underwriters is to prevent fire brands carried by the wind from some burning building breaking through a skylight and setting fire to the interior of the house.

Fire Extinguishers

Every dwelling should be provided with some ready means for quickly extinguishing a fire whenever it may occur. One or more approved 2½-gallon fire extinguishers of either the soda acid or foam type should be kept ready for instant use in a location where it will not freeze.

Such devices can be purchased for a few dollars and are most effective in the early stages of a fire. One should always be located in or near the kitchen.

Shelves Over Sink

When modernizing the kitchen add two or three shelves over the sink. These may be open or enclosed and will be a convenient location for soaps, scrubbing brushes, and other materials needed near the sink. These shelves may be painted a bright color which contrasts with the main color in the room.

Ash Containers

Many dwelling fires are caused by placing warm ashes in inflammable receptacles. Every residence should be provided with a fireproof ash container as a safeguard against damage by fire.

Inspect For Fire

If you do not feel competent to make inspections of your house in order to determine fire hazards, ask the chief of the fire department to send you a man provided you are within the jurisdiction of such an organization. If not, select a competent builder.

Make the necessary repairs and alterations which the inspector recommends. A small amount of money spent for fire protection may prevent heavy losses from fire.

Check Load

Do not attach fuses, vacuum cleaners, or other electrical devices to your lighting circuits or sockets before you consult an electrician as to the ability of your wiring system to withstand this additional load.

Electric wiring systems are designed to carry only a certain current and if overloaded may cause fires even though protected against overloading by fuses.

Inspect the wiring carefully whenever it is exposed. If you find that the insulation is ragged anywhere or if you have any doubt that it is in a safe condition, call an electrician and have it put in condition so he can approve it. Do not take the chance of having a fire give you the first warning that electrical hazard exists.

REMODELING AND
NEW CONSTRUCTION

Lone Chimney 'Breaks' Roofline

Beautiful Doorway, Shuttered Windows Attractive

A beautiful proportioned doorway and large, shuttered windows, with sloping roofline broken by a solitary chimney, are attractive features of the house shown today.

A garage is conveniently located for arriving guests, as shown in the plan. Half the first floor is given over to the combination living and dining room, with kitchen at the rear to the left. A closet is located to the left of the living-dining room entrance near the main doorway.

The second floor is given over to three bedrooms, with a large bathroom convenient to all. Closets are provided for each bedroom.

Exterior walls are stucco on frame construction. The roof is copper, for weathering. A warm air heating system is indicated.

Effective landscaping would do much to add to the beauty of the design. It was made by Dwight James Baum for the New York chapter of the American Institute of Architects' low cost housing competition.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q.—Can I coat the brass lamps on my entrance porch so that they will not tarnish?

A.—Brass can be protected from tarnishing by the application of a coat of clear lacquer which is made for this particular purpose. Spar varnish may also be used, but it may darken.

All traces of polishing material must be removed first. A liberal wiping with benzine will accomplish this. The work should be done with gloves on, so that the oil from the fingers will not endanger the proper coverage of the lacquer.

The article coated should be at a temperature of not less than 70 degrees.

Q.—How shall I re-roof with wood shingles?

A.—Cut away old shingles along all edges of eaves and gable ends. Place a nailing strip along the edge of the eave to give solid surface for the new shingles. Start the job with a double course at the eaves. Allow this course at least a half inch overhang and lay the shingles in the same way, with the same weather exposure as for a new roof.

Nail strips over old valleys to form a solid nailing surface. Remove old vent pipes and flashings and either replace the old ones if they are in good condition or add new ones. Re-flash around the chimney and nail the shingles over the new flashing.

Q.—Can a log house be white-washed or painted satisfactorily both inside or out?

A.—A log house can be white-washed satisfactorily unless the logs are not properly seasoned or recently have been creosoted or treated with other preservative material. This will bleed through the whitewash and will not make a satisfactory finish.

Q.—What should I do to get the heating plant ready for the winter firing season?

A.—It would be well worth while for you to have a reliable heating contractor go over your heating equipment to see that everything is in good condition. Frequently an experienced contractor will be able to suggest improvements that will result in substantial operating economies. It is particularly important that the boiler be thoroughly clean and that all dampers and controls are operating easily. If you have an oil or gas-fired boiler, a special check on the thermostat controls is advisable.

Q.—What thickness of cork floorings are available?

A.—Three-eighths inch and nine-sixteenths inch cork floorings are common. The former weighs 20 ounces per square foot and the latter 33 ounces. These can be sanded down to five-sixteenths and ½ inch thick, if required.

HOME BUYING and BUILDING

Fire Protection

(Note—This is the 22nd in a series of articles pertaining to the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Plan of the National Housing Act. For specific information on any particular subject or for previous articles in this series, write to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.)

The prospective home owner who is either building or buying a house should insist that it be protected from loss by fire. In addition to property losses, he should consider the fact that the majority of fires lost in fires result from residential fires. The cost of reasonable fire protection is but a small portion of the total building cost. If the house does not have proper protection, it should be remembered that the Federal Housing Administration insures modernization credit loans when made by commercial banks, building and loan associations, and other private financial institutions for work of this kind.

In checking over your house for fire hazards, examine all openings through floors, around pipes, chimneys, between studs, etc. Drafts cause fire to spread rapidly, and the addition of fire-stopping will be a great protection. Open stairways increase the fire hazard and should be enclosed wherever possible.

Examine the basement to assure yourself that the furnace or heater is properly separated from the surrounding basement area and the first floor. Effluents from the furnace or heater should be vented to the outside. Examine the fuel-storage room and storage closets. A fire door at the bottom of the basement stairs is an added safeguard.

Check on gas piping and outlets, clean and repair the entire heating system, and remodel or repair defective chimneys. Be sure that no com-

Heating Plant Repair
Advised Before Winter

Prior to the winter season heating plants should be examined and cleaned. Smoke pipes should be taken down and all soot and dirt removed. The bottom of the chimney should have been thoroughly cleaned. Metal plates should have been inserted in the openings. Too frequently wood, rags, or paper are used in lieu of inexpensive metal plates and a fire hazard created.

If this was not done during the summer, it should be done now. Chimney fires are common, but they are preventable.

If you have a warm-air furnace which has not air filters, clean the air ducts. Vacuum cleaners mounted on trucks may be used for this purpose. Check to see that warm-air ducts are properly insulated where they pass through inflammable material.

Examine all smoke pipes for rust. If they were left up during the summer, the moisture that came down the flue may have rusted them. In this case, when a fire is started hot soot may fall through the holes and start a fire.

Be sure to close the openings around all heating pipes, for once a fire has started these openings act as excellent flues and aid in spreading the fire.

A careful examination of the furnace, chimney, and heating pipes will prevent serious fires. Do this before an early cold spell requires a hot furnace fire.

Garage Space May Be Utilized Effectively

Today the majority of American residences include garages. Usually these are well built, but frequently extra space is not utilized effectively. Shelves can be built in to hold tools, extra parts for the car, etc. It is far easier to locate the hammer or screw driver on a shelf than to have to hunt through a pile of material to find them.

Offer children's outdoor playthings can be stored in the garage. If there is a sloping roof, the rafters are usually left exposed, and frames for storing screens, ladders, etc., may be placed overhead.

If the basement does not have storage space for garden tools, a cabinet in the garage will make a convenient place for them, and even in a small garage space between the height of head room and well above the roof of the car can be utilized for extra storage space.

A flat-roofed garage may be converted into a very attractive roof terrace. A stairway leading up from the garden, a railing or boxes for hedges and flowers can be added. Deck chairs, sun umbrellas, and a table will make this area a welcome addition to the summer living space at very little cost.

For small children, if a high railing is installed, the top of the garage can be converted into a summer playground. This is particularly advantageous for children in a crowded city, for it can be fixed to attract them and may overbalance their interest in the street as a playground.

The garage should be painted and kept repaired. It will deteriorate if not properly cared for, and a neat, well-painted garage adds to the value of a residence.

Architectural Taste
Vital To Better Homes

Architecture is a subject which is related to every person. It is not merely a "fine art" to be placed in great galleries and admired by the few. It is not an esoteric subject. Rather, it is part of each person's daily life, and each should be as familiar with what is good architecture as he is with what is good food or warm clothing.

The August 28 Milwaukee Journal had an editorial on the subject of architectural taste which said in part:

"Why are most people indifferent to architecture? . . . The American people as a whole lack architectural taste. We see a Colonial detail which strikes our fancy. We see a heavy English door which we admire. We delight in an odd type of rough plastering. We find some pleasing casement windows. Presently we go to an architect and demand that he mix the whole into a residence which can only be a perpetual monument to our lack of architectural taste. If he objects, we refuse to sit at his feet to learn. We know what we want; we are aware of 'what we like.' We will build our house—and live in it. And build it we do, pretty much according to our original ideas, despite the architect's protests. . . . A man can be just as ridiculous in the ownership of a mongrel house as in the wearing of a cap, a red tie, and brown shoes with evening dress. The fact that he is fond of all four of these items of dress and that all four are excellent in and of themselves does not excuse their combination in a person of taste."

Shelter—the homes we spend the greater part of our time in are among the most unsatisfactory of our buildings. Because they are so "everyday" we disregard the fact that they can and should be as carefully studied, as functional, and as attractive as possible.

America should think as much about its homes as it does its cars. Then there would be a revival in architectural taste.

PIPE SHAFT DRAFTS
MAY BE ELIMINATED

Since drafts cause fire to spread rapidly it is necessary that all openings around plumbing pipes be tightly enclosed.

Drafts or shafts for pipes should be fire-stopped at each floor with mortar or other incombustible material so as to form tight joints.

All exposed pipes which pass through any floor or wall should have the surrounding air space closed off at the ceiling and the floor line or on each side of the wall by close-fitting metal caps. Wherever possible they should be surrounded by mortar or other close-fitting, incombustible material.

If you are building a house, have all these items carefully checked. Money spent at the time of construction may save many dollars of damage from fire.

Do not thaw frozen water or gas pipes by applying a torch or open flame of any kind. Wrap towels with cotton cloth and pour on hot water.

Do not thaw frozen water or gas pipes by applying a torch or open flame of any kind. Wrap towels with cotton cloth and pour on hot water.

Owners Should Prevent Fires
In Basements

Basement fires quite often start from over-heated or defective smoke pipes. Keep smoke stacks at some distance from inflammable walls and ceilings.

Accumulated rubbish in basements is a fire hazard. Paint, oily rags, and other materials so frequently stored here often are fired by spontaneous combustion.

If the furnace is placed in a special fire-resistant room, the danger of a fire spreading to other areas will be reduced. If it is not confined, the entire basement must be carefully fire-stopped. Prevent drafts, by enclosing the spaces between the ends of the floor joists and the exterior wall covering. Store fuel at a distance from the furnace or in a specially constructed room. Watch warm ashes if they are not placed in fireproof containers for removal.

As a rule, fuel oil should not be stored in the basement. If possible, the point where the feed pipe leaves the tank should be lower than the point where the oil enters the furnace. This removes any danger of oil exploding in the cellar if the safety devices fail.

Gas Outlets, Pipes
Require Maintenance

This fall gas connections and appliances should be checked to determine whether or not they constitute fire hazards.

Each gas-supply pipe leading from a street main should be provided with a heavy metal stopcock or valve placed near the curb and arranged to permit shutting off at that point. In case of fire, the gas can be immediately shut off from the whole house. Otherwise the melting of connections or fixtures permits the gas to escape and increases the difficulties of extinguishing flames.

The openings around supply pipes should be solidly filled with cement mortar, and all outlets or flues left capped until covered by fixtures. No unions or running threads should be used—only proper couplings.

All gas burners should be placed at least three feet below inflammable ceiling. Rigid metal pipe connections should be used for all larger gas appliances—stoves, etc.—and flexible tubing only used for small devices.

All gas stoves, ranges and heaters should be tested to regular masonry chimney flues the same as similar heating devices using other fuels. If a gas stove burns improperly, it may release deadly carbon monoxide. A proper flue with a good draft will remove this hazard.

Many home owners are modernizing their bathrooms by installing glass shower enclosures.

These eliminate the necessity for the use of fabric or rubber curtains which do not last, make repairs and they keep moisture out of the main portion of the bathroom.

SOME NOTES ON MODENA
HOME BUREAU ACTIVITIES

Modena, Oct. 7.—The Modena unit of the Home Bureau met Friday evening at Miss Emma Palmer's home in Ardenia. Mrs. Frank Black repeated a lesson on "Let Us Have Fewer Colds." Mrs. Black distributed circulars containing reasons for catching colds, prevention of colds, and a list of foods rich in Vitamin A units. The next meeting will be held Friday, October 18, at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Modena, when the second lesson will be given by Mrs. Black. A pot luck lunch will be in order. Mrs. Black gave an outline of future lessons to be given and mentioned that Mrs. Bennett, State College specialist, had requested that members who receive these lessons repeat them in public schools, where colds are so apt to be prevalent during the coming winter season.

During the meeting Mrs. Orville Seymour, chairman of the recreation committee, appointed a committee to assist in holding a Halloween party in the gym of the Modena school, Tuesday evening, October 23. The committee, Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Roy DuBois, Miss Glennie Wagner and Mrs. Frank Coy will meet at Mrs. Black's home Monday evening, October 21. Mrs. Myron Shultis, vice-chairman, who is in charge of the membership drive campaign, announced 21 paid memberships to date, though the campaign does not officially start until November. Mrs. Frank Coy was welcomed as a new member at Friday's meeting, and Mrs. Lefter of Gardiner and Mrs. Thomas of Modena were visitors.

Members present were Mrs. Marshall Lowrie, Mrs. Edna Young, Mrs. Winfield Jenkins, Mrs. Emma Terwilliger, Mrs. Philip Baker, Mrs. William Bahret, Mrs. Jonah Rhodes, Miss Hilda Rhodes, Miss Dorothy Rhodes of Clintondale; Mrs. George Albeusen, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Lillie Stekler, Mrs. W. Edward Barcourt, of Ardenia; Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. Roy DuBois, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Orville Seymour, Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Mrs. Ransel J. Wager, Miss Glennie M. Wager, Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Cornelia Trolor of Modena and the hostess, Miss Emma Palmer.

Verda Bernard celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday with a party, when eleven children were present.

Miss Hilda C. Smith of St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, training school for nurses, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, last week-end.

Augustus S. Weeks attended the funeral of the late Delancy Mathews at Kingston Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Mathews was treasurer of the Olive Co-operative Fire Insurance Association, of which Mr. Weeks is president.

Mrs. Margaret Carroll and daughters, Margaret and Mary, were visitors in Newburgh Saturday.

Mrs. Thomas was in Newburgh Saturday afternoon.

This is a funny world. When an insect gets lit up they call it a fire fly but when a man gets lit up they call him a bum.

Judith Marie—Are they in love?
Jennie Lind—They must be. She listens to him describe a football game and he listens to her telling how her cousin's new dress is made.

Paradox: Conserving wild life so that hunters may have something to shoot at.

Complainant—She's been throwing things at me all our married life, your honor, and we've been married 20 years.

Judge—Then, why haven't you complained before?
Complainant—Well, sir, she's never hit me before.

There is always a welcome in any community for persons who can and will pay their bills.

Man—There are two sides to every question.
Friend—Yes, and there are two sides to a sheet of fly-paper, but it makes a big difference to the fly which side he chooses.

When a man tells you he values your opinion, he should add "When it agrees with my own."

Jerry—If you don't marry me, I'll throw myself into the river!
Katie—Hub, don't kill yourself, big boy. Your head wouldn't sink.

The man who can see his mistakes and correct them may not seem like a very brilliant or especially able person, but he is in fact one of the few who are really the salt of the earth.

Dad (to his four-year-old son)—Why, what are you crying so for, sonny?

Sonny—I heard you say you were going to get a new baby and I suppose that means you'll trade me in on it.

The sad plight of the wife of the editor of one of the popular magazines has been reported. The other night she said to him wistfully: "Henry, you never make love to me any more," to be put off with: "Darling, I don't like to talk shop at home."

Chow Round—Hey, mess mad, what's wrong with these eggs?
Mess Cook—Don't ask me, I only laid the table.

How often do we observe that it is the good swimmer who drowns? Excellence is prone to overplay itself.

Man—I'm going to the hospital for an operation on Friday.
Friend—Good luck, old boy. Hope everything comes out all right.

The crack in the Liberty Bell is now 160 years old, so it is eligible for use by radio comedians.

A very nice old lady had a few words to say to her granddaughter. Grandmother—My dear, I wish you would do something for me. I wish you would promise me never to use two words. One is swell and the other is lousy. Would you promise me that?
Granddaughter—Why, sure Gran. What are the words?

The only time the groom seems important is when he doesn't show up.

Mother—When that boy threw stones at you, why did you not come and tell me. Instead of throwing them back at him?
Willie—What good would it do to tell you? You couldn't hit the side of a barn.

The average person doesn't believe in signs unless they point the way he wants to go.

Mrs. Hammond-Eggs—Have you ever had an operation?
Mrs. Flebe—No.
Mrs. Hammond-Eggs—Then I can talk freely!

Puffy looks at the sky. And the weather quite fair.
"Come on," he exclaims, "let's fly up in the air."
"All right," says the monk, "that stop laughing and jumping—Before we can fly we must do lots of pumping."

Test Your Brakes Regularly

Year by year the deadly traffic toll reaches new peaks. In the thick of the battle to reduce this loss of life are state Motor Vehicle Administrators. Twelve of them, officers and members of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, have contributed a series of articles describing the major causes of automobile accidents. Number Six in the series: "Test Your Brakes Regularly" follows:

By JOHN F. GRIFFIN

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of New Hampshire, Regional Vice-President, American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators

BAD brakes mean that a motorist cannot stop when he must. The introduction of four-wheel brakes has done much to increase the mechanical safety of motor vehicles. Two-wheel brake cars are comparatively few now, but there are still enough to create a road menace. Last year the rate of two-wheel brake cars involved in fatal accidents was 59 per cent greater than for four-wheel brake cars.

The fundamental cause of accidents due to defective brakes is failure of proper maintenance. Brakes need to be adjusted regularly and finally replaced. Inspectors in cities and states having compulsory vehicle inspection found last year that two out of every seven cars examined needed brake adjustments or replacements.

Motorists, their own experience tells you the significance of these figures. You want brakes that will stop your car when you want it to stop. Be sure your car is equipped with good brakes, and keep them in good condition.

Braking has been greatly improv-

THE PARTY SEASON'S HERE AGAIN! HAVE ROLLICKING GOOD TIMES

FORTUNE-TELLING PROVIDES LOTS OF FUN

Oh, what a joyful time everyone's having at the Joneses' party! Our sketch shows the guests having their fortunes told. And they love it! See how eagerly they cluster round the kasper fortune-teller.

Take a tip from the clever Joneses. Make your parties the gayest, the merriest, in your set by providing entertaining games and pastimes for your guests. Fortune-telling is always popular. No one takes it seriously of course—and that's exactly why it is popular. It makes for fun and laughter, and that, after all, is what parties are for.

One way of telling fortunes is by "reading tea-cups." This is how it's done. Put a spoonful of dry tea in the cup to be used and pour boiling water on it. When tea is brewed, drain the cup dry, turn it upside down in saucer, then turn around three times. After a little practice you will see various symbols in the leaf-crowding that will give you the key to the future. A home, a dog means marital bliss, however.

An old Chinese mode gives other interpretations of the leaf crowding. It says that one leaf indicates loneliness; that two leaves mean marriage; three, that you'll gain your wish. Four leaves, according to the song, represent "a letter from a loving avain"; five, that a letter will bring you good news. And—

"Six in a row, a song you'll sing. Seven together, good fortune waits." Short and long tea-leaves mingled together are supposed to bring you company, and—

"Tea-leaves many and sorted fine Are of bad luck the surest sign. Tea-leaves few and clean the rim, Your cup with joy o'erflows the brim."

Nonsense, of course! But it's good fun, and a grand way of pepping up a party.

Clever Party Booklet Wouldn't you love to know more about fortune-telling? Our 48-page Home Institute booklet, GOOD PARTIES, has a whole chapter on this charming pastime. In fact, it's a complete guide to every jolly party. Here's a hint of its contents: Riddles, Conundrums, Games, Trivia, Stories, Parties for All Occasions, Monks, Church or Charity Events. Colorful Cross Stitch Adds Beauty to the Bedroom

PATTERN 5449

Since the bed is the outstanding piece of furniture, what can dress a bedroom up more effectively than a handsome spread? This lovely cross stitch wreath with its roses, daisies, bellflowers—you can do it in a great variety of colors—makes a striking center motif with a long bolster motif and two large and some small sprays to complete it. And if you want a matching scarf, pillows or other bedroom accessories, additional motifs in the companion pattern give you the opportunity of making these.

In pattern 5449 you will find a wreath 15 1/4 x 16 inches, a motif 6 1/2 x 15 inches, one and one reverse motif 4 1/2 x 5 inches and one and one reverse motif 3 x 4 inches; a color chart and key; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed. Price 10 cents.

In pattern 5450 you will find a transfer pattern of two motifs 9 1/4 x 10 inches, one and one reverse each of a motif 4 1/2 x 5 inches and one and one reverse motif 3 x 4 inches; a color chart and key; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed. Price 10 cents.

Classifications of Tea

Teas from all parts of the world fall into three general classifications—fermented or black teas which are preferred in this country; unfermented or green tea which is the kind used in Japan, and semi-fermented, a blend of the two. All three may come from the same bush for like some other commodities the chief difference lies in treatment after it is picked. Also, climate and altitude in which the tea is grown makes a marked difference in flavor.

"Junior" and "Third"

According to writers on etiquette, "Junior" or "Jr." always means the son or grandson of a man of exactly the same name; "Second" or "2nd" means the nephew or cousin of a man of the same name; "Third" or "3rd" is the son of a "Junior" of exactly the same name. It is improper for a man to continue to add "Junior" to his name after the death of his senior, or to add "Third" to his name if either or both of his seniors are dead.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Daytime frocks go in for tucks and shirring.

Liana Marwin

Many of the season's smart frocks for daytime wear are shown in machine-made creases with high, blazer surfaces and feature gathered fullness at skirt front, also clever use of tucks and shirring as details of bodice, neckline and shoulder styling. For trimmings, much velvet is bright color contrast to main, also accents of yellow or orange gold for belts, clips and buckles. In the sketch above at left is shown a smart one-piece frock of black, pearl machine-made with red velvet trimmings the pearl neckline and the very wide belt. This model dresses the important, spread front fullness, also shirred bodice, gathered shoulders and long fitted sleeves. Two later thin-skirted bottoms give further style interest to this lovely daytime dress. The skirt, one piece, model sketched at right also uses blazer machine-made in a broad green color. Applique tucking is displayed at the hip, neckline and tucks also from the new creases. Other notable features include front skirt fullness, self collar, fitted sleeves, draped front, and a wide belt and neckline accents of gold velvet trimmings the pearl neckline and the very wide belt and the clips that ornament the neckline.

Well Tailored House-Dress

This dress has been designed for fastidious women. The kind that keep half a lemon on the kitchen shelf to tidy up the elbows and nails. And a bottle of hand lotion nearby to keep those members soft and smooth. Oh, you can scrub floors in it if you have to, for it is a very comfortable dress. And it is to be hoped you will select some good washable fabric so that no amount of manual labor will impair its smartness.

The blouse is collarless, just a deep V neckline, with the front closing buttoned at the side. Sleeves are short, with pleats on top to make them flare. The skirt is straight, with a seam in front, and an inverted pleat beginning a little below the knees. All very simple, but very nice looking.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1696-B is designed in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

POLITICS at Random

POSSIBILITIES of an extraordinary scope are seen by the practical politicians in the developing debate over the Roosevelt farm program.

For one thing, the issue has a geographical aspect which is certain to play a major, if not a determining, part in party strategy next year. No other factor contributes quite so much to the growing conviction that the Democrats will make their principal appeal to the west, the Republicans to the east.

Secondly, there is the constitutional question. It so happens that public speculation about the forthcoming session of the supreme court centers largely around the cases contesting the validity of AAA. If the court throws out the processing tax, then what?

Administration officials will not answer that question categorically. But there are signs that they can see no way to patch up AAA under an adverse court decision except by a constitutional amendment.

Whether they would feel the palling power of the farm benefits great enough to warrant advocacy of constitutional change must await the event; but all logic indicates at this stage that if an amendment is to be proposed at all, the farm issue will be its vehicle.

An Established Policy

THE unique character of the issue becomes apparent only when the present situation is compared with that of other campaign years.

In past times farm relief has come in for much political discussion, but the interest has centered largely in the farm states, and much of the debate has been academic. Now the voters will be considering an established policy, not a theory, and the interest is nation-wide.

On the one hand is the exceptional circumstance that the farm belt is receiving its payments regularly from AAA; a factor which no one would undertake to discount in any election. On the other hand is the exceptionally bitter resentment which these payments have aroused among some consumers, and among many manufacturers who have to pay the processing tax.

The whole situation has such a compelling element about it that it is no wonder politicians are asking: Can either party hope to carry the agricultural west without being for AAA, and can either party hope to carry the industrial east without being against AAA?

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Internal AAA Worries

THE cause for Republicans worry is plain, since concededly that party must have some western states if it is to win the election.

It should not be supposed, however, that all of the anxiety is on the Republican side. Electoral votes do not grow thickly over the west, simple mathematics demonstrates the hazards of trying to reflect Mr. Roosevelt without any eastern help at all. Moreover, some of the large eastern cities long have been Democratic strongholds. Is this advantage simply to be abandoned?

Internally, too, the AAA has many worries. The increase in food imports is not calculated to stir enthusiasm in the farm country, and administration officials just now are nursing several separate headaches arising over wheat, hops, cotton and potatoes.

The biggest worry, of course, is the supreme court. What might happen on the farms if AAA were held unconstitutional, and the Republicans countered with some sort of export bounty proposal?

The problem is too heavily laden with alternatives to permit the politicians to agree on any definite conclusions. It is safe to say, however, that no other issue is receiving more careful study in either camp.

Avenues of Fashion with Esquire

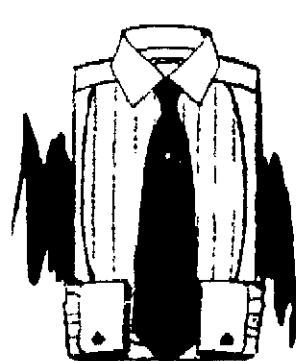

Few of us will ever have the experience of being valetted by a Wodehouse "Jeeves" and so the selection of proper shirt and tie is something that must be left to our own devices. ESQUIRE verbally lays out a few well-selected shirt and tie combinations with suggestions as to their appropriateness. With all due modesty, we doubt if a Jeeves could do much better.

NEW KNOT

The most recent of smart collar styles is shown here. This wide-spread collar attached shirt requires with a wide-spread white laundered collar. The tie in this case is of plain rep silk, its simplicity set off by a pearl stickpin. White cuffs are consistent detail.

BUTTON BUTTON

The collar style most favored by university men is the solid color oxford weave or candy stripe button down collar shirt. Its air of carelessness is desired for wear with odd jackets or sweaters. It should show a definite roll over the knot of the tie, which in this case is of printed wool in a sporty animal design.

ROUNDED CORNER

Particularly adapted for wear with the more nautical sort of clothing of the seafarer, tweed, or cheviot type shirts with rounded collars are permanently smart. It is a practical collar style for the heavier type of cheviot and flannel border of patterned shirts.

PEARL PIN

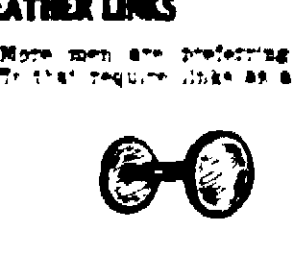

Mentioned before for wear with solid color neckwear, the pearl stickpin is much favored as a relief form the neckwear of this kind of neckwear. Inasmuch as deep plain colors of silk tie are much in fashion, it is an important detail, conservative and smart in effect.

LEATHER LINKS

More men are preferring double cuffs that require links as a matter of

COLLAR CONTRAST

For the Esquire touch of formality, the contrast collar with a dark, rich color of the shirt and a light color of the collar is a good idea. The contrast collar is a good idea. The contrast collar is a good idea.

Two Doctors Picked For Police Exams

The Municipal Civil Service Commission met Tuesday evening at the city hall and selected Dr. C. B. Van Gaasbeek and Dr. C. L. Gannon to have charge of the physical examination of the applicants who will take the civil service examination to make up an eligible list from which the Board of Police Commissioners may fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Policeman Arthur J. Dempsey.

Dr. Van Gaasbeek is a member of the Kingston Hospital staff and Dr. Gannon is a member of the Benedictine Hospital staff.

So far the civil service board has had 18 applications filed and a number more are expected. Tuesday, October 15, is the last day for the filing of applications with H. L. Van Deusen, secretary of the board.

The physical examinations will be held in the city hall on the evening of Wednesday, October 16, commencing at 7 o'clock, while the mental examination will be held in one of the study halls at the Kingston Study 24, Desk 37, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. October 7, 1935.

Kingston Freeman, Kingston, New York.

Dear Sirs:

An unfortunate misapprehension has been created in the minds of some of the people of Kingston and Ulster county, and I write to ask your cooperation in correcting it. Recently many received a circular offering genealogical information on the Styles Family available for $2.00; and, when some sent the money they received in return a typewritten manuscript of approximately seven pages based on material already published.

Some of your subscribers, who have been cooperating with me through the past six years in collecting data for a real book on the Styles and Stuart families, have taken the precaution to inquire whether the above circular embodied the product of our joint efforts. Others, it seems, have made the purchase under that impression and without cautious inquiry.

There is in fact no connection of any sort between these totally different things. The volume for which many of your readers have contributed data to me is a printed book, of more than one hundred pages of narrative and tables; in addition, it is to have reproductions of a number of daguerreotypes and other old pictures, and it is the product of long and arduous, original research.

Nor is it a commercial proposition for I have done the work and borne the expense of collecting the data solely as a tribute to the memory of my mother (who was Jeanette Styles); and the price of the book is to be only the amount necessary to cover the cost of printing, binding and mailing it. Publication has waited while I searched for the lowest bid consistent with wearable paper and clear pictures. For too much work has gone into this little volume to justify printing it badly. When the most reasonable bid is obtained, and I hope that may be soon, the book will be announced as available at that rock bottom quotation. No financial profit will accrue to the author; quite the contrary.

A decent consideration for the many Kingston and Ulster county people who, beginning in 1929 and continuing through 1935, have shown the writer family Bibles, have directed her to cemetery inscriptions, have loaned pictures and helped to verify innumerable dates and names, requires me to send you this information. Publication of it would certainly be appreciated by many of your readers.

I hope soon to be able to send a brief, formal notice for your columns announcing that the genealogy is forthcoming.

Very sincerely,

Golden Glovers Expected To Pack Auditorium Tuesday

Posters done in a blaze of color herald the coming of the Golden Glovers champs to the Municipal Auditorium next Tuesday night to box the best pugilists Benny Becker has in the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U.

These fight announcements stand out in every section of the city calling attention to the invasion of the Golden Glovers, singling out the event as one of the most outstanding in local boxing history.

Next Tuesday will be a red letter day in local boxing records say those connected with promoting the shows, paralleled only by the other appearance here of the Golden Glovers for the police convention last August.

Was "Big Time" Boxing

For that occasion the New Yorkers came to Kingston and put on one of the flashiest exhibitions of ring warfare ever seen here and sent the coppers away talking about how big time boxing attractions can be offered outside of New York and the larger cities.

Sergeant James V. Simpson of the Kingston police, who was responsible for arrangements on the sensational boxing card for the convention, complimented the American Legion on the flat show. "That card was one of the best I've ever seen," said he, adding, "whenever those Golden Glovers fight in Kingston again, they should pack 'em in."

That very same team that thrilled the police and regular Legion boxing fans is coming back—Jimmy Lambert, the international Golden Gloves welterweight champion who defeated Britain's contestant; Ray Olivio, featherweight champion; Joe Wall, bantamweight title holder, and Jimmy Williams, lightweight champion.

These boys have been matched with the cream of the pugilistic crop in the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U. for the coming flat extravaganza that is expected to pack the Auditorium and have the fight customers on edge every minute from the opening to the closing gong.

The Full Card

The full card of 31 rounds is as follows:

Jimmy Lambert, 147, New York, international welter champ, vs. Phil Elacqua, 147, Albany, who has never been floored, 5 rounds.

Ray Olivio, 127, New York, vs. Frankie Mirable, 129, Albany, featherweight champion of the Adirondack A. A. U., 5 rounds.

Manuel Roca, 119, New York, Golden Gloves runner up in the bantamweight division, vs. Charles Forczel, 119, Albany, 5 rounds.

Jimmy Williams, 135, New York, vs. Patsy Torre, 137, Troy, 5 rounds.

Joe Wall, 118, New York, Golden Gloves bantamweight champion vs. Danny Hubbell, 117, Waterford, 5 rounds.

Kid Chapple, 122, Kingston, vs. Paul Gardiner, 122, Saratoga, 3 rounds.

Kid Miller, 140, Kingston, vs. Babe Marinucci, 139, Troy, 3 rounds. Orders for ringside seats are pouring in to Les Barth at the American Legion building and indications are that there will be an overflow crowd. Orders can be phoned to 1914.

Hobart Is Peeved— And With Good Reason

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Hobart's alumni, students, and faculty and especially the football players want it known by the world in general that the Deacons won their opening game—and by a record score.

Apparently someone else besides the quarterbacks got their signals crossed.

Hobart defeated Holbrook College from Manchester, Ohio, 52-0, the largest score the Deacons have ever made against a college team.

But in some unexplained way, Holbrook was reported as the victor. In fact, the Deacons were reported as the victor, and Purple's 28th straight defeat, giving Hobart "the undisputed title of the world's losingest team."

The interested parties, still playing that first game despite the fact Hobart won another last Saturday when it defeated Union, 7-0, have gone back to the record books to lay low the life.

Here's the way it all sums up, in a statement from the college publicity bureau:

"But if the Genevans couldn't win the game in the newspapers, they certainly did on the football field. The 52 points they scored will go down in the record books for all time, and the world should understand now that the Hobart losing streak has been dead and buried for four years."

"De it hoped that the grave robbers now will let the ghosts of yesterday rest in peace."

Will Spend $500,000 On Detroit Ball Park

Detroit, Oct. 9 (AP)—A big slice of that world series gate is going to stay right in the ball park where most of it was earned.

Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit Baseball Company, has announced that he would spend $500,000 this winter in enlarging the seating capacity of Navin Field so that his champion Tigers could play to a bigger house next season.

Navin told a group of 800 business men who paid $5 each for the privilege of crowding their knees under the same banquet table with the Tiger players at a "victory dinner" last night that his plans would add 10,000 to 12,000 permanent seats.

President Navin did not indicate whether the enlargement of the park would be accomplished by construction of additional bleachers or by addition of another deck to the pavilions.

All of the Tiger players were guests at the banquet, with the exception of Joe Sullivan, southpaw relief pitcher, who was ill.

From Manager Mickey Cochrane to Joe Rogien, the batboy, they responded to toasts. Again with one exception, Pete Fox, the regular Bengal rightfielder.

Cornell Ace Back Unable to Play

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Cornell's hope of being at full strength for its Saturday game against Syracuse University in Syracuse were blasted today.

Jeff Stofer, ace back and key man for the first string eleven, will be unable to play. He was out for heavy scrimmage yesterday with the third team, but an injured leg would not bear up under the strain. He was taken out and ordered to take some more rest.

Andy Pierce, and Bill Manson, other injured backs, and Er Bragg, slightly injured wing reserve, survived the session however, and were expected to show up well in practice today.

Just what is going on behind the closed doors of the Cornell Stadium is not known. Coach Gil Doble has taken to secret practice and no word of what is happening has been dropped.

Alteration Of Football Rule Leads To 'Wide Open' Play

New York (AP)—This is the year marked for wide-open football.

The only major alteration in the rules since last fall—and it is called a mere interpretation of a standing rule—makes it legal for a player whose forward progress has been halted to pass or break away for a kick or run until the ball is blown dead by the referee.

This liberalization effected by a supplementary note inserted in the old rule book is expected to encourage lateral passes. You may see the ball pop out of the arms of a tackled runner to a teammate at any time, so long as his pass is either lateral or backward after he has advanced.

A "Radical Development"

H. J. Stegeman, director of athletics at the University of Georgia and member of the national rules committee, regards this as a "radical development in one of the spectacular phases of the game."

"The remarkable popularity of such lateral passing teams as Colgate and Ohio State has brought an insistent demand for this type of play," says Stegeman.

"The new interpretation is going to allow the ball carrier all possible opportunity to pass the ball to a teammate—even if he is held in the grasp of an opponent."

"This season the referee is required to allow a ball carrier to throw the ball as long as he is in any possible position to do so. As long as the ball carrier is not on the ground his opportunity to pass must not be taken from him. As soon as this opportunity ceases the ball will be declared dead."

Stegeman Answers Critics

Answering the viewers-with-alarm.

the stand-patters who think the new ball, Stegeman says:

"There is no danger of the game developing into basketball, but the fans can expect to see the ball in the air on almost any play. You will see the ball carrier, as he is about to be tackled, look around for a teammate. The forward passer also will have more opportunity to complete his passes under the same interpretation, so it is to be expected that more forward passing will result."

"The passer will be allowed more time to find his receivers—and receivers will have more time to get in the open."

"All in all it looks like a season of wide open play."

Coach Sees Benefits

From the coaching ranks comes the suggestion that the change wrought by the interpreters likens football more to the parent game of Rugby and that the American game will benefit thereby.

"There are dangers in the lateral pass," says William H. (Bill) Spaulding, coach of the University of California at Los Angeles, "but it has some definite advantages. In Rugby the offense expects to lose the ball from time to time through interceptions and in football the other side is going to take the ball away from you occasionally and perhaps score on the play."

"However, a team ought to get more out of Rugby tactics than it loses—if the youngsters know how to handle the ball."

Japan Insists His Visit Be Formal So 'Cactus Jack' Will Don Top Hat

By GLENN RABU

Tokyo (AP)—Because the Japanese government is determined to pay him all the honors due the official who stands next to the President of the United States, any hopes Vice President John Nance Garner may have had of avoiding fuss and formality, silk hats and stiff collars in his passage through Japan late this month are doomed to disappointment.

Mr. Garner, whose adherence to the simple, informal ways of his Texas home is proverbial, will visit Japan on his way to Manila, where he will attend the inauguration November 15 of Manuel Quezon as first President of the Philippine Commonwealth.

Byrns Goes Along.

Traveling with him on the liner President Grant, due at Yokohama October 25, will be a congressional delegation of about 50, including Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, and chairman of the congressional committee associated with Philippine affairs.

The party will continue to Manila on the same liner, making possible a stay of only one day in Tokyo.

This is a sort of "old home month" in American-Japanese relations, for George H. Dern, secretary of war, also on his way to the Manila inauguration, is scheduled to reach Yokohama October 14 and be an official guest in Tokyo until October 18.

These two visits will afford an opportunity for publicizing American-Japanese friendship which the Tokyo government is preparing to seize.

Informality?—Tch, Tch! When it was suggested to high Japanese officials that Mr. Garner plain man of the people, dirt farmer and fisherman, would like to make his brief visit to Japan informal, the Japanese were little short of scandalized.

"But he is the Vice President of the United States, the chief lieutenant of the head of the American nation and he must be received with all fitting ceremony by our Emperor," was their reaction.

Scandalized at the suggestion that Vice President Garner (left) make a simple "informal" visit to Nippon, the Japanese government insisted that he be received "with all fitting ceremony." Official host to Garner and his party will be Admiral Ketsuke Okada, premier, right.

Reception Schedule.

So "Cactus Jack" and selected members of his party, probably Speaker Byrns and the committee chairman, will be received in audience by His Imperial Majesty, Hirohito, 124th emperor in the dynasty of the Sun Goddess, the morning of their arrival.

Aware of Vice President Garner's wish to see something of Japan with wearing easier habiliments than the silk hat, cutaway and striped trousers of his official status, the foreign office has suggested that if he will stop for a week or more on his return voyage from Manila, the government will arrange for him to enjoy Japanese hospitality in an informal way.

When the Vice President and his party arrive at Yokohama the morning of October 25 the program calls for an immediate motor journey of 18 miles to Tokyo. The Imperial audience probably will take place before noon. In the afternoon there will be a reception at the American embassy and in the evening a state dinner, at which Admiral Ketsuke Okada, premier, probably will preside. Mr. Garner will go by train to Kobe on October 26, rejoining the President Grant at that port.

"Stop Ozzie Simmons" Colgate's War Cry

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—

Colgate's new war cry of "Stop Ozzie Simmons" was raised today as Coach Andy Kerr put his Red Raiders through defense tactics to be used against Iowa strategy Saturday.

One of the fleetest freshman backs was even drafted in the seasons yesterday to impersonate the speedy Hawkeye negro. The Red Raiders stopped him most of the time, but he got away for a couple of long runs that would have meant something had it been the real Simmons.

BATTERY A WILL AGAIN PLAY IN 150TH F. A. LEAGUE

Plans are progressing for the organization of the 150th Field Artillery Regimental Basketball League, which will again include Battery A of this city.

The league, which has had very close games during the past several years, Battery F of Newburgh winning last year, will again play a two-round schedule. A meeting of the various armory representatives will be held shortly.

Battery A will play at least one home game and one road game in the league. In addition A will follow an active outside schedule, playing its first game on October 24 against the Port Jervis All Stars.

Battery B, of Poughkeepsie, one of the two units in that city, suffered a bad blow to its chances in the Regimental League when George Burgin, high scoring center, broke the third finger of his left hand while playing soft ball. Burgin, who also plays with the Shamrocks in the JIS League of Poughkeepsie, was voted the most valuable player of that league last year and ranked with the best in the 150th last year. Still another blow to B's chances was the making of Brock, its ace forward last year. A lieutenant, it is believed that he will not don court togs this year. With Burgin and Brock out Battery B is expected to strengthen its team. Reports concerning the other teams of the league are that every one will have a faster lineup.

The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs

Ulster county have compiled the metal trapshooting handicap list for 1935. This list includes all known trapshooters in Ulster county and divides them up into four classes according to their past performance and known ability. While this list includes the names of all known shooters there are additional shooters in the county who will be added to the list as the names come to the attention of the trapshooting committee. This is the official record to be used in county shooting meets, such as the annual Field Day Shoot of the Federation which will be held Saturday, October 13, at the Ulster county Gun Club grounds off the bank road.

A noteworthy point which is called to the attention of the trapshooters of the county is the fact that this year there are more Class A shooters than there were Class B last year, denoting a vast improvement in shooting this season.

Added target handicaps for each individual contestant in each of the four classes will be determined by the "Shogren System of Handicapping". The classes are designated as Class A, Class B, Class C and Class D.

Any trapshooter whose name does not appear in the following lists and who competes in either or both of the county championship matches Sunday shall automatically be placed in Class A. Any club president of the Federation may make desired additions to the list up until Thursday, October 10. The list applies to the two Ulster county championship matches and does not apply to any inter-club matches except as may be agreed between the team captains of such competing teams. The list is determined by Roswell Coles and Charles B. Finch, joint chairmen of the trapshooting committee of the Federation.

Connelly Aces Drub Armory Team, 27-9

The Connelly Aces played their first indoor football game Tuesday night at the Armory and defeated the Armory team 27-9. Ray "Possum" Avery pitched a bang-up game, striking out four men and hitting a homer. "Ed" Maurer, the Aces' lead-off man, helped make the victory easier by smashing out six singles. Every man on the Connelly team hit safely at least twice. "Curt" Clair caught for the Aces. Berardi pitched and Lindhurst caught for the Armory team.

The Aces claim the most impressive football record of any team in Kingston or vicinity, with no team holding the count over them. The Cornell-Rescue aggregation gave them the most trouble, holding the Aces to two victories out of four games.

The Awash river of Ethiopia, which is 200 feet wide and 4 feet deep in the Danakil lowlands, rises 50 or 60 feet during floods, inundating the plains for miles along its banks.

Tomorrow is Somebody's BIRTHDAY

What's the date today?....
say...tomorrow...why...tomorrow is somebody's birthday!

Someone you love and hold dear. Mother, dad, sister, brother. An old friend. A teacher, a little boy or girl, a baby.
Show you haven't forgotten...

Send a Birthday Present!

Maybe it isn't tomorrow; maybe it's the day after, next week, a month from now. Maybe it was yesterday... but even so, it's not too late. Send a birthday present.

Send a birthday present to the nephew or niece away at school who thinks you are, well, just the grandest person in all the world. Prove it. Put a piece of your heart in a package and write that boy's, that girl's name on the label. Send a birthday present.

Send a birthday present to your sweetheart. Make it a personal gift.
It needn't be expensive. But put it out yourself. Choose something that's best. And then, send it with your love.

Remember the boy in the corner. A birthday is a big thing to him. Give him a smile when you buy your paper; a box of candy, a bunch of gloves.
He will grow up to be a big man just because you remembered his birthday with a present.

Send a birthday present to the boy you used to play with with as a child, the boy or girl who once blew out the candle on your own birthday cake in the same old friendship best; don't lose them. Keep them—send them a present.

The mother who took such good care of you when you were small:
she won't have many more birthdays. How delighted she will be to know you haven't forgotten. Send a birthday present—next year may be too late.

Send a birthday present. There's no finer, grander custom. Everyone sends Christmas presents, that's habit, it's expected, conventional. But you don't have to send a birthday present—it's unexpected, it shows thoughtfulness, consideration—and that's what makes it so welcome.
Give! It is the most wonderful thing you can do. You get so much back—love, happiness, friendship, affection. All the things that really count.

Just because you don't have to do it—send a birthday present!

Send a birthday present. Don't send money... send the best thing you know that person will like best. It really doesn't matter what—or how much it costs. A present that cost one dollar—a present that you picked out yourself—is better than a new ten dollar bill. Just because you have said, "There it is, just what he wants!"

Chip in and help your boss a birthday present. You know the grief he's had steering the business through the rough water, trying to meet the payroll, to keep up salaries. Your troubles have been his troubles. Show him you know—with a birthday present!

Send a birthday present to the man you do business with, the customer whom trade has made so much to you. He won't misunderstand.
Just to make sure he won't, send a present to the man who sells you goods.

Send a birthday present. It doesn't matter what you send. Flowers, a toy, your picture, a pipe, a rug, a clock, perfume, a puppy, a pair of socks—anything!

Just send it! It's a birthday present—and it's from you.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, THIRD
JUDICIAL DISTRICT, CUSTER COUN-TY—EMO'S CREEK, SECTION No. 1
In the Matter of the Application and Petition of the Board of Water Supply of

THE CITY OF NEW YORK FOR the appointment of a Justice of the Peace in Chapter 724 of the Laws of 1908 as amended.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that it is the intention of the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York to make application to the County Court of the County of Albany for the appointment of Commissioners under Chapter 724 of the Laws of 1908 as amended.

Each application is to be made at a certain term of said Court to be held at the County Court House in the City of ALBANY, ALBANY COUNTY, NEW YORK, ON THE 22ND DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1938, at 11 O'CLOCK in the forenoon, and as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

The object of this application is to obtain an order of the Court for the appointment of three disinterested and competent freeholders to be sworn in as Justices of the Peace in the County of New York, and at least one of whom shall reside in the County of Ulster, as Commissioners of Appointments, to be authorized to appoint the compensation to be paid to the Justices of the Peace in the County of Ulster.

all persons interested in the 127 parcels of land laid down on a certain map entitled:

"Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, Map of parcels of land adjoining the Kaopuk Creek between the Shandaken tunnel outlet at Allandale and the Kaopuk reservoir in the Towns of Shandaken and Kaopuk."

This map was filed in the County of Ulster, State of New York, affected by the provisions of Chapter 724 of the Laws of 1906, as amended, along, over or through the Kaopuk Creek, and to acquire the right in perpetuity to interfere with or otherwise affect the natural and usual flow of the waters of the Kaopuk Creek by the induction into said creek in the portion thereof between the Kaopuk reservoir and its mouth from time to time, and in such quantities as the operating needs of the City may require, of the water from the Shandaken reservoir, according to the maximum rate of flow shown on the map entitled "Second," which map was filed in the County Clerk's Office, County of Ulster,

State Woodcock Law Changed by Osborne

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne today changed the state game laws concerning shooting of woodcock to make them conform with federal regulations.

As a result, the open season on woodcock will be from October 15 to November 15 and the daily bag limit will be four birds per person. Under the state laws the season opened October 1 and continued until November 30. The daily bag limit was six birds daily and the total for the season not more than 21 birds.

The use of a rifle in the taking of woodcock is prohibited. The birds may be taken with a shot gun only, not larger than 10 gauge, fired at arm's length without rest.

Red Cross Wars on Carelessness In Home or While at Work on Farm

THE American Red Cross is throwing the weight of its entire organization behind a continuing campaign to combat the negligence and lack of knowledge in the home and on the farm which last year claimed nearly 40,000 lives and injured millions.

According to safety experts most accidents can be prevented. Every Red Cross Chapter and Branch will play a part in this large-scale humanitarian operation, and have mobilized to meet the challenge of carelessness, according to Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Red Cross chairman.

Through an intensive educational program, the Red Cross will seek to explode the fallacy that the home is safe. Common and uncommon hazards will be pointed out; individual families will be shown how these hazards may be eliminated and instruction will be given in the avoidance of unsafe habits and practices apt to cause accidents.

Preparations have been made to inspect more than 30,000,000 homes, the inspection to be conducted by home dwellers themselves. Through the co-operation of educational groups, the school child will take a specially prepared inspection form into the home and survey it for hazards with the help of parent or relative.

Accidents in the homes of America kill more than 80 persons an hour each day, and run up a medical, nursing and insurance bill exceeding $1,000 per minute. Farm work accidents last year took more than 4,000 lives and maimed many permanently.

Accident prevention is a natural outgrowth of Red Cross instruction in first aid, a service initiated 25 years ago and responsible annually for saving many lives and preventing minor accidents from having major consequences.

Federation of Bar Associations' Meeting

The Federation of Bar Associations of the Third Judicial District will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, December 14, at Hudson. Arrangements for the meeting were made last Saturday at Albany, where the officers of the federation met for that purpose. The meeting was attended by Samuel B. Coffin of Hudson, president, Judge James V. Coffey of Troy; Robert C. Poskanzer, John T. DeGraff and Judge William E. Woolard of Albany; Percy W. Decker of Catskill and Harry H. Flemming of Kingston. Mr. Flemming has been treasurer of the federation since it was organized five years ago.

COMFORTER C. E. ELECTS OFFICERS, PLANS ACTIVITIES

At the Church of the Comforter Christian Endeavor Society business meeting Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: President, Henry Elmhurst; vice president, Douglas Kennedy; secretary, Zella Follette; assistant secretary, Edith Kennedy; treasurer, Beatrice Powley; assistant treasurer, Albert Scheffel. The Sunday night prayer meetings will begin October 13 at 7:15 o'clock in the church meeting room. The presentation of a play at some future date was discussed and a committee was appointed to arrange some sort of a pageant in connection with the church work. Plans were talked of for raising money to help in the church activities and several committees were appointed to arrange the program for the coming season.

Dorothy Spencer, an accomplished musician of radio fame will appear in the New Hurley Reformed Church on Friday evening, October 25, at 8 o'clock. She will play both the harp and xylophone. A silver collection will be taken for the benefit of the church.

Annual Turkey Dinner.

The annual turkey dinner served by the Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity M. E. Church will be held Wednesday evening, October 23, from 5 o'clock until all are served. Home-made candy will be on sale. The ladies in charge of the dinner are planning a most excellent menu and hope their friends will remember the date and attend the dinner.

During the rainy season, Ekhlopa's Takhoo river rises some 15 feet above its normal level, forming an impassable barrier between the northern and central provinces.

Education Board To Receive Report Of Committee On Site

The Board of Education will hold a special meeting late this afternoon to receive a report from the building committee on the proposed site for the junior high school, and also the price asked for the land.

It is understood that the committee will submit a report of the price asked for the land in the rear of the Kingston High School, which is owned by the O'Reilly estate.

A member of the building committee when asked what the price was stated that the committee did not want to make public its report before its submission to the full board.

The site of the present high school was purchased from Mrs. C. B. O'Reilly for the sum of $55,500.

Spectre of Bolshevism.

Berlin, Oct. 9 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler raised the spectre of Bolshevism and stressed Germany's circumscribed area in an appeal for funds today at the opening of the Nazis' third annual relief drive, "Bolshevism," he said, "is a periodic manifestation of the time and remains until a nation finds its way back to idealism. The Nazis fought Bolshevism and brought the nation to the peak. But with success, failure is bound to march. The poison of Bolshevism may again make its appearance. . . . We must remember that we live in a circumscribed area."

get young ideas!

WHY SMOKE an old-style 1914 model cigarette that gives you the throat and nerves a "rough ride"; a cigarette that denies you the "streamline" smoothness and taste-thrills of modern Old Golds? For in Old Gold's richer, finer tobaccos there's nothing to irritate, and plenty to stimulate . . . young ideas and feelings.
